I am able to create the object with no problems using my dbml file. I am using the connection string from app.config and the code is similar to the following:

```
public MyPOCOClass(string dbName, string dbHost, string dbPort, string dbUser, string dbPassword) { this.dbName = dbName; this.dbHost = dbHost; this.dbPort = dbPort; this.dbUser = dbUser; this.dbPassword = dbPassword; var entity = new Entity(); entity.Connection = new System.Data.EntityClient.EntityConnection(this.dbName, this.dbHost, this.dbPort, this.dbUser, this.dbPassword); this.entities = entity.Metadata; }

This should be enough to tell the issue, but in case it isn't, here is the code that sets up the connection: private void InitializeServices() { _loggingConfiguration = (LoggingConfiguration)LogManager.GetLoggingConfiguration(string.Empty); _log4netAdapter = LogManager.GetLog4NetAdapter(); _log4netAdapter.ActivateOptions(); _sqlConfiguration = new SQL
