KeyMacro is a keyboard macro editor. KeyMacro allows you to define macros for various commands (eg. open/save, call/run, close/save, etc.) and you can use these macros to execute all of the actions you want to. The way macros are set up in KeyMacro is quite straightforward. You can have as many macros as you like and they are stored in a List. Using the list, you can define which command you want to execute when you press a key. You can choose the option of pressing a key for a command as many times as you want or press a key only once. Other options you can choose from are key types and to which keys of the keyboard. KeyMacro comes with a variety of keyboard types, including the classic QWERTY, Dvorak, AZERTY, Spanish QWERTY, Japanese QWERTY, Chinese QWERTZ, and Danish QWERTZ. Additionally, it is possible to assign all of the keys to a key type or a particular function. Further to these, you can modify the size of the macro area with the Slider. You can also hide or show the text which is input and the number of times the macro is executed by the Fading/Disappearing option. All of the created macros can be stored in a file with the list and the macros. The macros are stored in a format which is understood by Windows. With KeyMacro, you can have macros for a specific file or you can have macros for a folder. KEYMACRO can handle files and folders of type: PSS, PPS, PCD, SCC, RAR, CAB, ISO, ZIP, TAR, ARJ, JAR, and UUE. You can have macros for multiple files or folders. Additionally, it is possible to have macros for all files or all folders. The program can be fully managed on the Web from a local or remote computer. Important: This application will automatically close your current session when removing the USB flash drive, so if you forgot which USB drive you used, you can do nothing except to remove the USB from your computer. You should insert the USB before you log out. Password booster is a standalone software and it will not require you to be connected to the Internet. Once it has been installed on your computer, you need only to insert the USB flash drive and the application will be set up in a few seconds. When you install the application on your computer, it will copy the needed files into your hard disk. You can also choose whether or not to create an additional log file in your system or not. The presence of the log file makes the application more efficient. The configuration of Password Booster is easy. All you need to do is to insert the USB flash drive into your computer and wait for the application to ask for the password. You will see three options for choosing the USB flash drive: • Previous configuration • Available • Enroll • Previous configuration will allow you to remove the last USB, available will be the USB with the current configuration and enroll will be the option that you can set as the default. The application will show the settings page after you insert the USB. You can enable or disable the log file. At the end of the process, you will be asked to insert the USB so you can activate your system. The Password Booster can be configured to be the default system USB. To do so, go to the main configuration page, right click on the USB you want to be the default and select the "Set as default" option. For your convenience, the application will change the settings you made when you remove the USB. Important: Password Booster Screen Lock is a standalone application that does not require you to be connected to the Internet. Once it has been installed, you need to just insert the USB flash drive and the application will be set up in a few seconds. This article contains a complete review of kaspersky anti-malware 2014.
